10.00 Forum: Educate by leaving a positive sign/
The Difficulty of asking for help

Teachers and parents have launched an alarm: how can we help children at risk?

A situation that can often lead to dramatic consequences: school dropout, addiction, affective disorders in relationships. This scenario is not just about the complexity of family life, but also manifests itself in school.

A reflection on the need and the duty to build a system of targeted interventions and to improve synergies between education agencies.

10.00 Forum: About me:
Adolescent trials between diversity and standardisation

The path to maturity is full of pitfalls. Social tensions will inevitably and often reflect with greater intensity on the first personal experiences lived by the children individually, away from the protection of the family. In a global and multifaceted world we try an exploration of how diversity can be experienced, in which spaces and with which languages can be measured, between isolation and representations of otherness, in the difficult attempt to be themselves.
